Extreme Terminal Congestion in Los Angeles

Please be advised there is still extreme terminal congestion and ongoing limited berth availability in the ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach, there are continuous problems and major vessel delays.

In addition there is still a critical shortage of truck power and chassis throughout the harbor. This is affecting all shipping lines to meet vessel cut offs.

Your customer service representative will keep you updated if any of your shipments will be directly affected / delayed by this congestion.

Should you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact your account representative.

Yours faithfully,
